

I am pleased that XM has added a traffic station to its lineup. It is much more convenient to tune to their constant signal rather than wait for the sporadic reports offered by regular radio. I pay a fee for this service and I feel that I am entitled to hear whatever XM stations that me or other listeners are willing to pay for. It seems like someone has their nose tweeked over traffic reports because they are trying to protect their current franchise. Nothing is stopping them from operating there own station that would just do traffic-is there? If that were offered, I would listen to their station as well.
